

MALTON Inflight

MALTON Inflight is the world's leading provider of inflight catering and passenger comfort items. Every day, millions of passengers are benefiting from the products, which they design, manufacture and supply.

They have won the highest accolades within their industry; ITCA Mercury awards for innovative and environmentally-friendly products.

Most products are specifically designed, or created, in partnership with their airline clients, and are based on the vital knowledge and experience that the designers have gained from more than 30 years in the airline industry.

Their main manufacturing centres are strategically sited in both Shanghai and Shenzhen, China, from where they ship to more than 80 major airlines around the world - around the clock.

They are striving to maintain the most ethical standards in manufacturing within their industry. Quality, social and ethical audits are verified and checked by their independent inspection partners, Bureau Veritas.

All products comply with the required safety regulations and are manufactured in factories, which are vetted and inspected by their quality assurance partners, Bureau Veritas.

The airline industry is constantly evolving with new challenges to meet.

Whenever possible they are striving to ensure all their products are either made from recycled materials, or that the product itself is capable of being recycled after use.

Malton's management team has a good mixture of skills and experience. All of the team are passionate and demanding about giving customer satisfaction but with a personal touch.

Managing Director Gordon Oakley formed the company in 1989.

He was previously Senior Purchaser at British Airways and formerly British Caledonian Airways. Gordon has a vast knowledge of manufacturing products for the inflight service industry - and he has drawn around him a first class team of professionals with a vast experience of the airline industry.

"Without doubt, the dynamic Gulf region is a priority market for any major provider in the aerospace business. We believe it is essential to meet contacts face-to-face and at times that are convenient to our partner-airlines in the region. Through our Dubai and Abu Dhabi offices we will always be accessible and available locally to support and deliver the unbeatable combination of value, service and quality that has seen us grow so successfully" Gordon Oakley, Managing Director, Malton Inflight.

"Malton is a supply partner who truly recognises service, listens and responds to the customer needs. They have always pulled out the stops and risen to the challenge - and we appreciate the effort they put in to meeting our needs." Steve Pette, Head of Innovation, The House, LSG Sky Chefs Inflight Agency for Virgin Atlantic Airways.
